

My Bed became a grave
that I didn't want to climb out of...

"Breakup is hard, I get it."

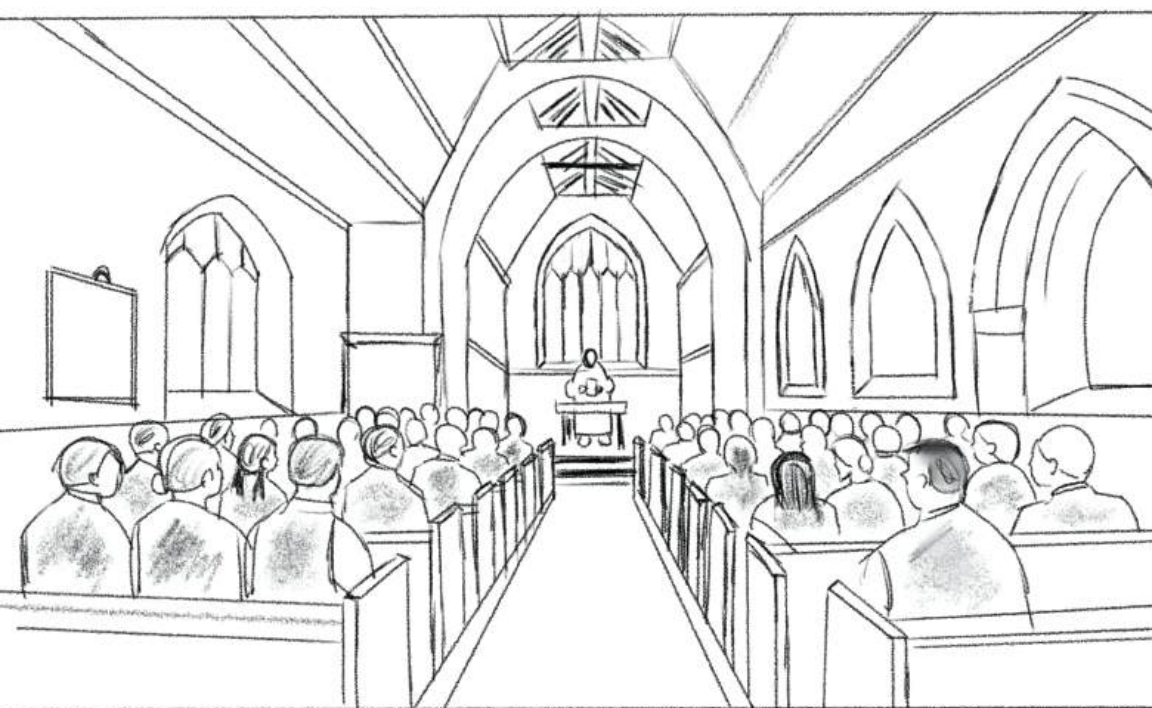

"You should go to church!"

"You don't have to believe it,
just go, see if it helps."

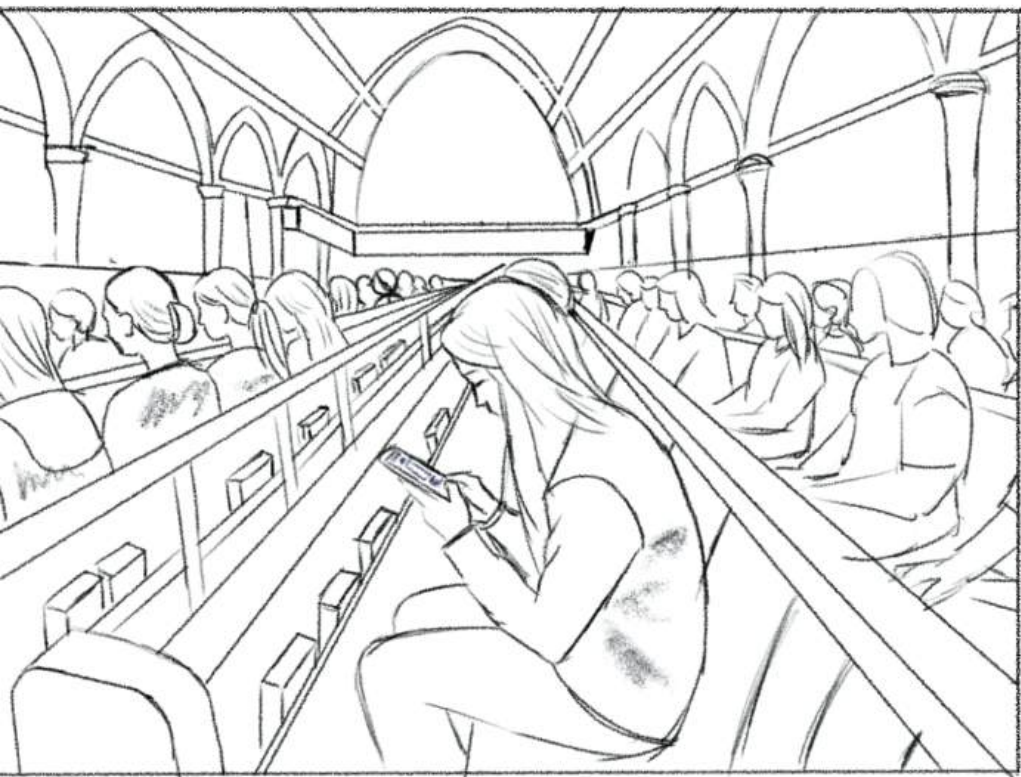

It looks....

So moral....

I felt like an outsider
stepping into someone else's story.

Everyone looked so calm.
I don't know what I should be looking for....

Wait... Is she scrolling...
Instagram?

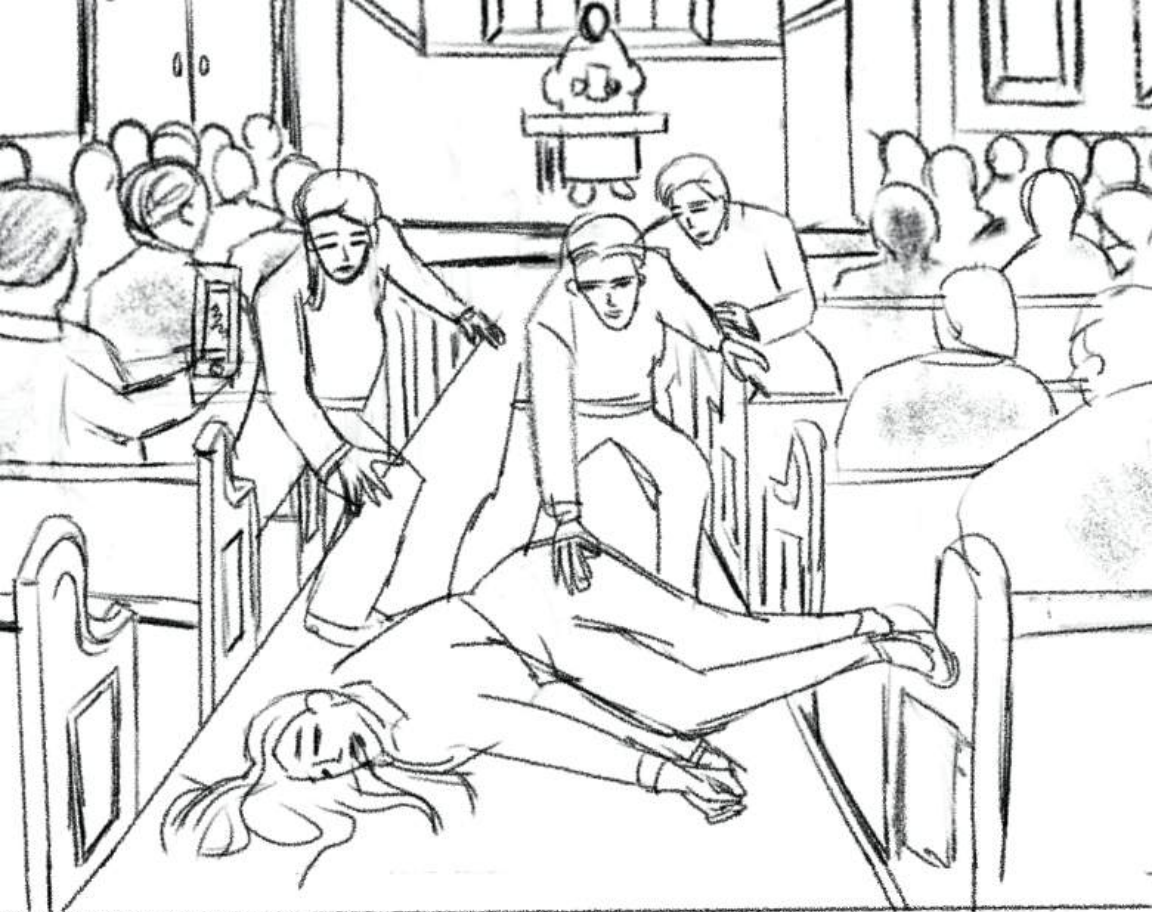

And he is Snoring??

Looks like I am not the only one not paying attention.

All of a Sudden

Something weird happend...

Screaming. Twitching.

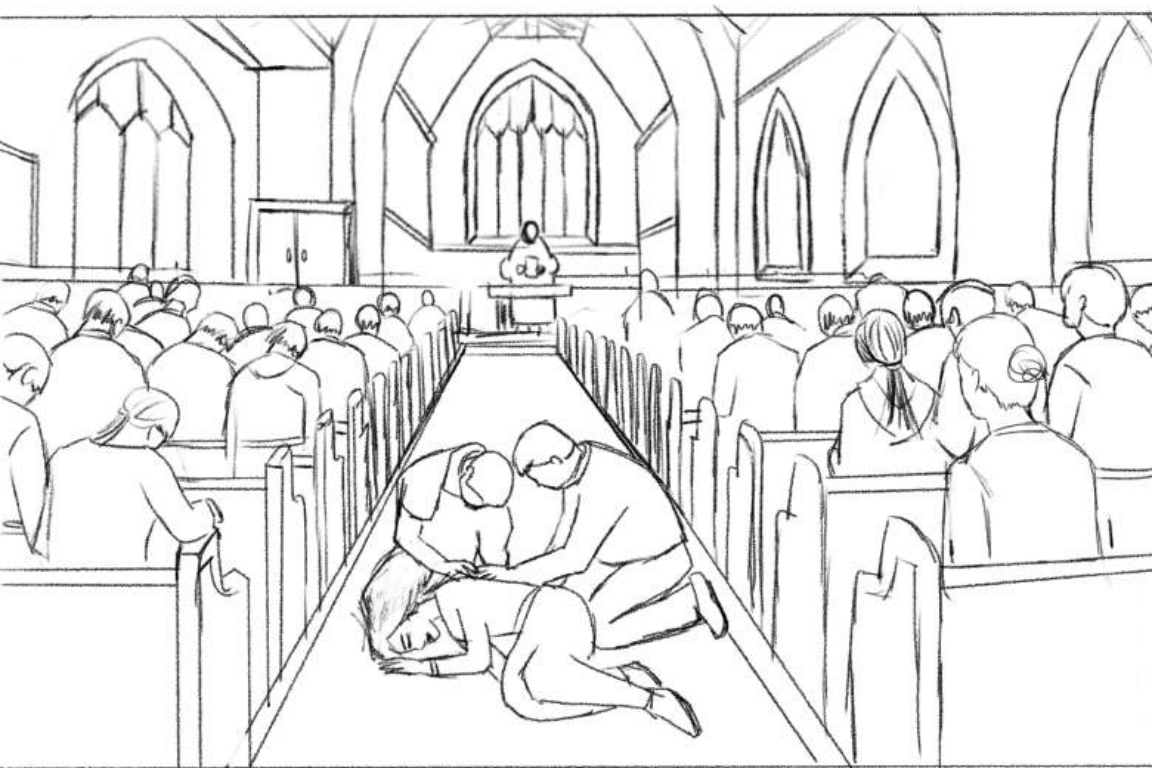

Her body didn't feel human.

People ran to her.

I just froze.

"What is happening.....

Is she... having a seizure?"

"Let's pray for her
All together, use the power of god to help her."

Is this actually gonna help?
Should we call 911 instead?

What if it works?

Did she just stood up by her self??

What a Miracle...

"We just saw miracle happened,
helped by our dear god."

"God ended all this for you to show you something better."

Walking out of the church,
Something cracked open inside me.

I didn't find all the answers,
But I didn't feel quite so heavy anymore.
